

The Amazing Kid Behind the Mask

Wearing a mask is important to help us stay healthy. Since people can't see smiles behind masks, let's create a self-portrait showing the "amazing kid behind the mask"!

1

Print out the activity page and use crayons, markers or pencils to create your portrait. Draw and color your hairstyle, add glasses and anything else that makes you unique. Color in your eyes and skin.

2

Now think about some words that describe who you are, and some of your most "amazing" qualities. If you get stumped figuring out words you can ask family and friends for their ideas. Write/draw these words in and around the boxes and circles in the middle section of the page. You can try creating bubble letters or other unique letter styles.

3

At the bottom of the page, draw and color a design for the "mask" your portrait will wear.

4

When your page is finished and colored, fold it in half from the bottom. You will have two sheets of paper at the top; fold down the top sheet only, carefully lining it up with the bottom. The mask you designed should cover your self-portrait's mouth.

5

Now, by pulling the bottom edge of the paper up or down, you can show or hide the "amazing kid behind the mask"!

This activity is used with permission from Cassie Stephens, <https://cassiestephens.blogspot.com/>

Name: _____

Project idea courtesy Cassie Stephens, cassiestephens.blogspot.com

