How much of the time do each of these statements apply?

Children's Hope Scale Rating

Most students score as highly hopeful or moderately hopeful!

The Washington HYS Adverse Childhood Experiences Scale (WAH-ACEs) is a set of 11 ACEs questions, each question corresponding to a point on the scale.

A higher score indicates a greater number of these severe childhood stressors. Research has shown that these stressors can influence physical, mental, social, and behavioral health across the lifespan.
